Bulgarian tuner Vilner is back with a new project that takes a car interior to a whole new level, with the company targeting the Mercedes-Benz Vito this time.

The base vehicle is a Vito 120 CDI that has been transformed into a first-class business shuttle which rivals private airplanes in terms of luxury. The tuner has replaced the front seats with a pair borrowed from the Mercedes CL, while in the back it has fitted four modified airplane-like seats. The entire cabin has been dressed in mate...
