No, we're not reporting on an actual joint effort between the warp division of Dartz and tuners Mansory, though that would be pretty interesting. We're pretty sure that somebody will call wrapping car the work of the devil or something like that, but we're pretty sure this is the biggest new trend in a long time.

The Aston Martin DBS kit by Mansory you see here has changed the appearance of the car by adding cosmetic touches, like a full body kit and some new wheels. The interior has also bee...[...]
