speedART has finally shown what it wants to do with the 2012 Porsche 911 Carrera by previewing their SP91-R kit for the brand new sportscar. This very first image shows a distinct body that will officially be shown at the Geneva Motor Show this March.

In fact, speedART has promised a total of three kits, with the one shown here focusing on creating a softer, more elegant look with the help of changes to the rear portion of the lift-up wing and some 21 inch LSC-FORGED wheels painted black with... [...]
