Vossen is currently working on a project based on the F10 BMW 5-Series, with the aftermarket developer recently releasing a photo shoot that previews the development.

The central element is a set of 20-inch Vossen CV3 wheels, which use a concave, five-spoke design that offers an aggressive appearance and come in a dark finish. In addition to that, the 5er has been gifted with multiple tuning goodies, such as a new front fascia, which comes with massive air intakes and uses a bold design.[...]
