

Bentley Continental GTC Tuned by Office K

25/01/2012 17:28 by admin

Japanese tuners have a passion for abducting vehicles and fitting them with styling kits that take things far, very far. We are now here to bring you a new example of this. Aftermarket developer Office K has recently played with a Bentley Continental GTC, which has been turned into an extra-flashy four-wheeled creation.

The topless British ride was fitted with a body kit that uses extremely bold lines and comes from Mansory, a custom bonnet that uses carbon fiber, as well as a set of five-sp... [...]

Source: autoevolution