

Ford Focus ST-R to Make its Racing Debut at Daytona Grand-Am 200

26/01/2012 16:38 by admin

After a year in development and nearly five months after its public debut at the 64th Frankfurt Motor Show, Ford's Focus ST-R will make its racing debut this Friday at the Grand-Am 200 that takes place at the Daytona Motor Speedway. Competing in the Continental Tire Sport Car Challenge ST class, the racing version of the production Focus ST is a fully prepared competition car. It sports a 2.0-liter EcoBoost engine, a new suspension specially tuned for track use, updated brakes and an FIA-approved roll cage.[...]

Source: Carscoop