

Range Rover Evoque Gets Overfinch Olympus Wheels [Video]

27/01/2012 18:48 by admin

Overfinch is British tuner that's well know for its love of everything Land Rover and so it was only natural that the company started played with the new Evoque. The tuning company has recently targeted the new baby Range Rover, gifting it with a new set of high heels. The crossover has received new Olympus lightweight alloy wheels, which come in a 20-inch size.

Customers can choose between three finishes, antracite, black and titanium, and thus they can choose to have rims that match the col... [...]

Source: autoevolution