The Volkswagen Beetle has just received a new modification package, with the tuning gift this time coming from JE Design and covering both the tech and visual sides of the car.

The Bug's 2.0-liter TFSI unit, which produces 200 hp and 280 Nm (207 lb-ft) of torque when it leaves the factory, has received an ECU remap and now allows the driver to play with 240 hp and a peak torque of 310 Nm (229 lb-ft).

On the road, this is translated to a 0.6 second reduction for the 0 to 62 mph sprint time ... [...]
