

Edo Competition Bestows Porsche Panamera Turbo S with 700-horses

03/02/2012 18:10 by admin

We are inclined to disagree with Edo Competition's claims that its new Porsche Panamera Turbo S tune with 700-horsepower is the most powerful version of the saloon ever as a quick look at our archive proves otherwise; the tuner itself had presented a 750HP version of the car called "Moby Dick" back in January 2011? That's not to say the Edo Competition's Panamera Turbo S isn't fast. On the contrary, thanks to a series of modifications including new exhaust manifolds and turbochargers, high-flow catalytic converters and air filters plus an ECU tweak, the V8 gains 150HP and 130 Nm (96 lb-ft) of torque for a total of 700 horsepower and 880 Nm (649 lb-ft).[...]

Source: Carscoop