

Porsche 911 (991) on Modulare Wheels [Photo Gallery]

06/02/2012 21:37 by admin

The Porsche 911 is probably the most tuned car in the world, so it's only natural that the new 991 generation of the rear-engined coupe follows this tradition. However, since this is still extremely fresh, there aren't too many aftermarket developer that have gotten their hands on the car so far.

US aftermarket developer Modulare Wheels has recently released a photo shoot of a 991 911 Carrera S wearing a set of its B18 forged monoblock rims. These come in a 21-inch size and use an antracite fi... [...]

Source: autoevolution