Aftermarket developer Wheelsandmore is riding high, with the company releasing its second project this month. After it gave us its McLaren MP-12C , the tuner is now presenting a Mercedes SLS AMG project.

Called the SLS AMG Silver Wing, this received a few tech upgrades, as well as minor exterior tweaks, all of which manage to make it stand out without trying too hard. The 6.2-liter V8 was gifted with a stainless steel exhaust system that uses remote-controlled flaps, as well as an ECU remap. ... [...]
