

2012 Porsche 911 V-GT by Vorsteiner

24/02/2012 20:26 by admin

US tuning specialists Vorsteiner have shown a graphic interpretation of what's gong to be a package for the new 911. It's called the V-GT and it targets the Carrera S version of the car.

This isn't you usual putty and paint conversion, as all the parts will be made from carbon-fiber pre-preg autoclave, including the add-on front spoiler that includes a integrated brake ducts and also adds downforce.

Also new are the side skirts that have a blade sticking out also made of carbon fiber. Also... [...]

Source: autoevolution