For this year's Geneva Motor Show, German supercar manufacturer Gumpert came with an even uglier version of the Apollo. But this time, the car is also black to hide the horror, and has the brutish strength to defend itself when attacked.

The Apollo Enraged, seen here in a video shot in Geneva by Youtuber alexsmolik, is powered by a 4.2-liter V8 that has supercharged to 780 horsepower. This racecar for the road comes with gullwing doors and an engine cover to impress passers by, and was design... [...]
