

Nissan GT-R Rides on ADV.1 Wheels

21/03/2012 21:24 by admin

The Nissan GT-R has special rims that come with a lip that's design to keep the tire in its place during the extreme maneuvers the car is developed to perform, so fitting it with aftermarket rims is not a simple job.

We are here to bring you an example of such a project, with an example of Godzilla being fitted with a set of ADV.1 wheels by Canadian aftermarket developer Tunerworks. The supercar was gifted with a set of ADV.6.01 monoblock wheels that come in a 20x11-inch size for the front ax... [...]

Source: autoevolution