Often times, some supercar tuning projects simply don't show up on the media's radar because instead of offering a complete package, some companies tailor the car to the customer's needs instead of telling them what they want.

SP Engineering is one such company, but we did manage to find out a little bit about this car, filmed by Allandiablo. The American tuner offers up a program that turns your Ferrari GT car into the 599 GTX, a (cheaper) alternative for the GTO.[...]
