The vehicle in the adjacent video has to be a form of protest against the misconception that station wagons are typical family vehicles. We can't think of another reason to have your Mercedes-Benz C63 AMG Estate covered in matte pink.

While the aesthetic effect is questionable to say the least, we can't deny that this is the exact opposite of a dull family mover. To start with, the hood conceals a 6.2-liter V8 engine that has a deep growl and offers the car a level of performance that's not t... [...]
