Kahn has turned its obsession with tuning Range Rovers into a new piece of reality, with the British company releasing the Red Ranger, a Range Rover sport dressed in a color that seems to perfectly suit it.

It all started with a Range Rover Sport, which received a widebody kit, consisting of fresh front and rear fascias, beefier wheel arches, new side skirts, side air vents and a new front grille.

The tuning company also added a set of RS600 wheels, which come in 22-inch size and use an e... [...]
