The Subaru BRZ (along with its Toyota GT 86 and Scion FR-S) sister cars, is a vehicle that handles great doesn't quite offer a complete performance package due to the fact that it only comes with 200 hp.

Taken in isolation, this level of power is enough for an enthusiastic driver, but in the current era when even hot hatches top that, a sportscar really needs more and here is where the aftermarket developers enter the stage.

The Subaru BRZ has recently received a tuning kit (preview) from ... [...]
