

Lingenfelter Camaro ZL1 Hits 202 MPH [Video]

03/05/2012 15:47 by admin

The Chevy Camaro ZL1 might look like a brick-shaped American pony car, but it's actually the most advanced piece of GM engineering right now. Like German tuners tuning the 911, the Americans just can't leave the car alone now that it's been launched onto the market, Lingenfelter Performance Engineering has created a custom ZL1 that caught everybody's attention straight away. [...]

Source: autoevolution