Wheelsandmore recently targeted the Ferrari 458 Spyder, releasing a complete modification package that touches all the sides of the topless supercar, promising to offer a fresh feeling to the driver. The tech side of the deal includes a carbon airbox, custom intake manifolds, a valve-fitted exhaust system, as well as new ECU map. The result of all this play? 647 hp and a peak torque of 635 Nm (468 lb-ft). The tuner had previously released... [...]
