It used to be the case that when you had a custom car build, you had to take all the plastics off, sand it, re-prime it, apply a coat of paint, buff, apply another and so on. What's more, only the super-rich could afford the chrome paint and other exotic finishes. Now though, things have changed with the arrival of vinyl wraps, which allow you to make your big sedan or SUV look like a gold bar or a carbon fiber menace. The same ... [...]
