US aftermarket developer RSC Tuning is currently working on a front bumper for the Lamborghini Gallardo LP570-4 Superleggera and is now showing us the first pics of the development. The bumper has had its prototyping process completed and is set to enter production. Basically, all it needs for a Gallardo to be able to wear it on the street is preparation and paint. This is priced at $4,095 and, due to the fact that the company has some pr... [...]
