

Brabus Building a Sprinter Super Ambulance with AWD and a 5.5-liter V8

13/06/2012 20:45 by admin

Due to its life-saving role, an ambulance has to be fast enough to arrive as soon as possible to the place of an accident or a medical situation, with the same applying for the drive back to a hospital. Exactly how fast depends on many factors including the type of vehicle. While we don't have all the details in our hands yet, given the Brabus brand's previous achievements in the tuning industry, something tells us that its new Special Project Mercedes-Benz Sprinter Ambulance for the desert won't disappoint when it comes to speed.[...]

Source: Carscoop