

Lamborghini Aventador "Project AU79"

22/06/2012 09:15 by admin

Some people, thanks to their deep pockets, just can't help but put new meaning to the word 'excessive'. Take the owner of this Lamborghini Aventador for example. Sure, he already has one of the most opulent supercars on the planet, but he decided to give it an added shine, and he took it pretty literally, too. You see, this isn't just any Aventador; this is an Aventador that has been foil-wrapped in gold chrome. The name of the gold chrome Aventador is "Project AU79" and while we're not too sure what the '79' stands for, we do know that "AU" - or Au - is the symbol of gold in the periodic table of elements. YouTube member Vodeezz was on hand for the official unveiling of the Aventador Project AU79 so we're tipping our hats off to him for catching this true one-of-a-kind 700-horsepower Aventador get its proverbial shine on.[...]

Source: Source