German-based car manufacturer Alpina has been making fast Bimmers since the 60s. It takes some of the best that BMW can offer and turns out performance-oriented, tuned-up vehicles laden with go-faster parts and extra luxury. Citizens of the U.S., however, have had few opportunities for ownership. It appears as though that's gradually starting to change. The B6 xDrive Gran Coupe is Alpina's take on the 6 Series Gran Coupe, BMW's four-door styled as a two-door. This AWD rocket was first seen on American soil last year at the 2014 New York Auto Show, joining the 7 Series-based B7 for Alpina's two American offerings.[...]
