

Mansory Bentley Bentayga spotted in France

10/08/2016 15:51 by admin

It's taken all of about five minutes for tuners to get their hands on the Bentley Bentayga. Crazy German outfit Mansory issued a teaser of their interpretation back in May; though it has not yet followed that up with any concrete details, the finished article has already been spotted parked at the roadside in France. As you would expect of the company that gave us the Mercedes G63 Sahara Edition, it's not exactly subtle - not that a standard Bentayga hides its light under a bushel. With its huge air intakes and boxy fender extensions, there's a distinct touring car racer vibe to the thing.

Source: Motor 1