Manhart elevates the Mercedes V-Class with a notable transformation, primarily focusing on aesthetic enhancements. The external modifications start with an AMG-inspired look, achieved through a body kit sourced from TopCar Design. This kit introduces a redesigned lower fascia featuring sizable corner intakes, reminiscent of the aggressive styling found in AMG models. While drawing inspiration from team AMG, the body kit incorporates various small details that contribute to the overall makeover. The hood undergoes a significant change, departing from the previously flat panel and adopting a double-domed design. Additionally, a subtle lip spoiler is integrated into the fascia, and the LED lights receive an upgrade, enhancing both aesthetics and functionality. Overall, these exterior modifications from Manhart and TopCar Design combine to create a visually striking and distinctive appearance for the Mercedes V-Class.
