

29/05/2009 15:12 by admin

Although it does little to improve upon the already stellar looks of the standard C63 AMG wagon, in the area of power, horses are plentiful. There's 585, in fact. As for our friend Newton, there's plenty of him as well, with 690 Nm of torque all awaiting your eager right foot. Together, they'll propel you to a top speed of some 202 mph, while a limited slip differential with a 60 percent locking rate ensures optimum power transfer to the road. To increase handling, a new sport suspension system has been incorporated into the V63RS, as has a high performance brake system and new 20-inch wheels (9x20 and 10,5x20, 245/30 and 285/25). Inside, TV/DVD unit, and whatever else your heart desires. Carbon hood Carbon air escape Carbon rear diffuser