

Lorinser Releases First Studio Photos of E-Class Sedan

29/09/2009 09:50 by admin

Lorinser has released the first official images of their styling package for the Mercedes E-Class sedan (W212). While details are limited, the package remains pretty faithful to the original design sketches and leaked photos that surfaced earlier this year. Up front, Lorinser added a sportier grille (similar to the one used on the C 63 AMG), a revised bumper, and aggressive front fenders with air vents. Out back, the E-Class features a trunk-mounted spoiler, a four tailpipe exhaust system, and a redesigned rear bumper with an integrated diffuser. Other styling touches include Lorinser wheels, extended side skirts, and a roof-mounted spoiler.

As we have previously reported, Lorinser will also offer a performance package for the E 500 sedan. Boasting special camshafts, an upgraded exhaust system and revised engine electronics, the package enables the 5.5-liter V8 engine to produce 320 kW (435 HP) and 570 Nm of torque.

Source: worldcarfans.com