

Lumma Design Panamera CLR 700GT Design Sketches Surface

04/10/2009 21:42 by admin

Images of Lumma Design's Porsche Panamera-based CLR 700GT have surfaced on the web.

To give the Panamera an aggressive appearance, Lumma adds an extreme body kit with a new front fascia, a carbon fiber hood, and aerodynamic side skirts. Other changes include 22-inch 'Racing Edition' wheels, rear fender vents, a carbon fiber spoiler, a four-tailpipe exhaust system, and a new rear apron with an integrated diffuser.

While details are limited, the car boasts 700 PS, a lowering module (which reduces ride height by 35mm / 1.38 inches) and a high performance braking system.

Look for more information to be released when Lumma officially unveils the CLR 700GT.

Source: worldcarfans.com