

Range Rover Sport by Prestige

03/11/2009 21:17 by admin

The Range Rover Sport gets a do-over from British tuner Prestige.

The Prestige S kit for the Range Rover Sport converts this premium SUV's styling to a more muscled-out look and includes a variety of optics/aerodynamic cues to do the trick.

The new front bumper comes with air intakes and fog lights while the extended wheel arches give the Range Rover Sport a wider stance. Air intakes are also present on the new rear door paneling.

Door panels also extend downward to create a side skirt effect as well as give the Range Rover Sport the appearance of a lowered ride height, but the tuning here is limited to the bodywork.

The rear bumper is also lowered and made to hold the exhaust pipes and comes with a towing mount cover.

Additional options to be had include LED headlights, side wing and bonnet vents, radiator grill, and spoilers for the rear.

For the inside are a series of bespoke-themed leather finishes and other detailing.

Source: worldcarfans.com