The Russian automotive beauty experts, TopCar, are taking yet another opportunity to remodel the new generation Porsche Cayenne by providing another package with exterior and interior updates. It is called the Vantage 2 and is basically the non-GTR version of the Vantage GTR2 provided by the same tuner.

For the exterior, the package adds a long list of carbon fiber elements, including a new front spoiler bumper, front fender extensions, and a new bonnet. More carbon can be found on the side skirts, rear spoiler, roof spoiler, rear fender wings, and diffuser with LED brake light strip. The package also includes a new set of wheels available in either 22" or 23" dimensions. The interior only gets cleaned up with hand-crafted leather and different aluminum insertions. However, the most impressive changes were made under the hood. Much like its GTR partner, the Vantage 2's 4.8 liter twin-turbocharged V8 version has been tweaked to deliver 760hp, up from the standard 500hp. We're the word on the new performance numbers as of yet, but we'll pass them along as soon as we get them. Source: ??????
